Wednesday
3 October 1984

Top Secret

25X1

CPAS NID 84-232JX

3 October 1984

Сору 486

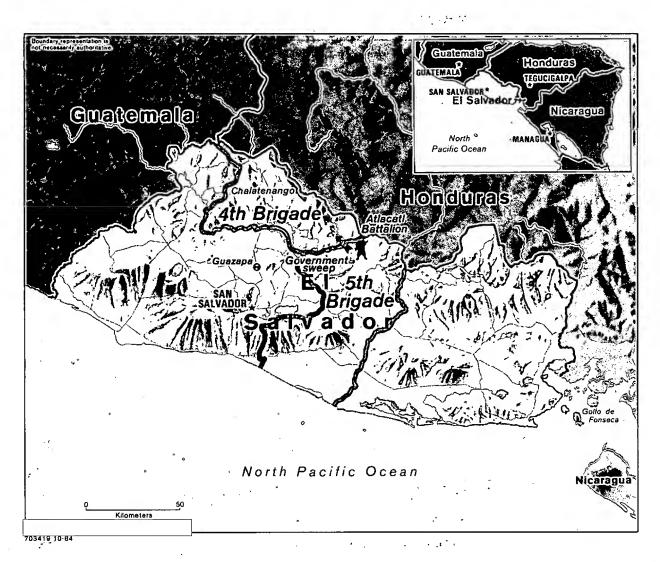

Sanitized Copy Approved for Rel	lease 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
;	Top Secret
·
·	*
			_ 25X1
1			20/(1
1 1 1
	Contents
	El Salvador: Military Situation	1
	Central America: Contadora Negotiations	ż ·
	Egypt-North Yemen: Renewing Relations	• •
	Notes	1
	USSR-Morocco: Warming Relations	4
Į į t.	Jordan: King's Gesture Toward Arabs	t
	Japan: Pressures To Raise Defense Spending
	Yugoslavia: Measures Against Ethnic Albanians	4	25X1
			0574
.; Д 1 1	USSR-Angola: Possible Soviet Disinformation	7	25X1
• 1	Western Europe: Delays in Satellite Launches	8
1	USSR: Meat Production Up	8	25X1
. 1
	In Brief	10	- 1
	Special Analysis
	Special Analyses Nicaragua: Mixed Prospects for the Insurgents	11
•	Turkey: Resurgent Terrorism
	Zimbabwe: Mugabe Consolidating Control
	5
,		•
[
}	4
1 · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·			25X1
1
		•	25X1
	Top Secret

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4

3 October 1984

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/02/10	: CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
· ∜1.op Secret

25X1

25X1

ILLEGIB

*5 Top: Secret

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/02/10: CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4

Sanitized	d Copy Approved for Relea	ase 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4 Top Secret	_
		•	25X1
	EL SALVADOR:	Military Situation
·		Army operations in the north suggest that tactical coordination between ground and air units is improving, while the guerrillas reportedly continue to have problems.	25X1
T.	•	Military attache reporting indicates that 2,000 to 2,500 troops currently are sweeping eastern Chalatenango.
. •
			25X1
		Meanwhile, lack of funds in the Guazapa area, in central El Salvador,
•		reportedly forced one insurgent faction to suspend operations during August and September.	25X1
		Comment: Much of the Army's success in recent months reflects closer coordination between infantry, artillery, and air units and better and more timely use of tactical intelligence. Recent command changes and a realignment of brigade boundaries also have resulted in more capable and aggressive field commanders taking charge of the key 4th and 5th Brigades.	25X1
		The Chalatenango campaign is the Army's first major operation in the area for many months. Previous reporting indicated that large numbers of insurgents were evacuating their strongholds in the region, probably to escape Army ground and air attacks, but also to begin operations farther to the west. Current government operations in the north, however, will complicate rebel efforts to train. resupply, and concentrate for large-scale attacks.	25X1
•		Nevertheless, insurgent resupply continues. The guerrillas, despite their many problems, remain fully capable of striking hard at lucrative military and economic targets.
		,	25X1
ı	,
		·	25X1
		Top Secret  1 3 October 1984	25X1

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4

Sanitize	d Copy Approved for Releas	se 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
			25X1
	:
	CENTRAL AMERICA:	Contadora Negotiations
		The Core Four countries—Costa Rica, Honduras, Guatemala, and El Salvador—have agreed that the proposed peace treaty needs further negotiation, but Contadora mediators are seeking support for it at the UN.	25X1
•	· ; ;	The Core Four Foreign Ministers have agreed that a new phase of negotiations should begin after 15 October, the deadline for their replies to the Contadora group. According to a US Embassy report, each government will send its comments separately. Costa Rica and Guatemala will address political issues, while Honduras and El Salvador will concentrate on security concerns.	·
	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	The Costa Ricans believe that focusing on the unique concerns of each state will reinforce the political impact of the presentations. The Honduran and Salvadoran ministers have told US officials, however, that they are unhappy because they all want to share equally the burden of objecting to the draft.	25X 25X1
		The US Mission to the UN reports that Mexico and Nicaragua are urging the Security Council to meet this week to endorse the latest Contadora draft. The Panamanian Foreign Minister in his speech to the General Assembly urged other countries to promote the draft, while the Colombian Foreign Minister called on the Security Council to back the Contadora process.	25X1
и и		Colombian President Betancur told the US Embassy that he disagrees with US objections to the draft but would consult his Contadora colleagues. He fears that Nicaragua will withdraw from the talks if more changes are made.	25X1 <sub>.</sub>
· ·		Comment: Managua's early acceptance of the draft treaty has given Nicaragua a propaganda victory and has put the onus on the Core Four. Although the Core Four will not be stampeded into signing the draft, continuing pressure by the mediators for a quick settlement will make it more difficult to revise the proposal. Moreover, their decision to submit their observations independently probably indicates some dissension.	0574
•		An endorsement of the draft by a majority of the Security Council would be a substantial diplomatic victory for Managua. The Contadora mediators, however, probably will pursue a noncontroversial resolution that merely backs the Contadora process in order to avoid a possible US veto.	25X1
		5. 15. 15 47514 & possible 65 7610.	25X1
1

Top Secret

3 October 1984

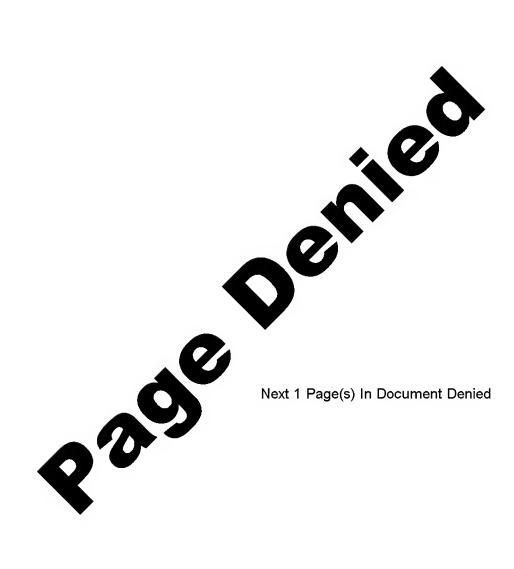

iitizea Co	ppy Approved for Relea	se 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4  Top Secret	25)
*			25
	EGYPT- NORTH YEMEN:	Renewing Relations
	HOMINI TEMEN.	North Yemen may restore relations with Egypt	25
;
,
j 1.
) ]		Cairo has acted to clavify its relations with the Arch
į		Cairo has acted to clarify its relations with the Arab states. The Egyptian People's Assembly voted yesterday to withdraw
i		from the federation agreement of 1971 with Libya and Syria although it emphasized that this action does not imply any lessening of Cairo's	1 commitment to Arab unity. President Mubarak said publicly that 1	•	Cairo was merely acknowledging that the union does not exist except on paper.
! !		on paper.	.25
1		Mubarak warned "tenfold retaliation" against Libya if Tripoli carries
i		out its rumored attack against the Aswan High Dam. He made clear that the Assembly action was not directed against Syria and
1		expressed confidence that Egypt soon will have normal relations with all Arab states. He emphasized that restoration of relations with Cairo
1		would not mean an endorsement of the Camp David accords nor	, 25
† *		would it mean that Cairo is canceling them.	20
$ $		Comment: The North Yemenis probably see renewed ties with Egypt
		as a way to counterbalance relations with Saudi Arabia and to obtain help in maintaining their Soviet-supplied military equipment. North	1
;		Yemen, the last Arab state to break relations with Egypt, upgraded
;		relations last May by appointing a senior diplomat to head its Interests Section in Cairo.
			25
;		Mubarak had been planning for months to break the tripartite federation agreement of April 1971, which was signed but never
•	•	enacted. He fully expects that other Arab states eventually will follow
, 1		the precedent of Jordan and restore relations. Mubarak hopes to encourage them by making clear that acceptance of Camp David is
•		not part of the package.
			2
• •
ļ
ļ		. 1

Top Secret

	"
Sanitized C	opy Approved for Release 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
:	Top Secret
•		25X1
•
•	· ·
	,
1 "
ı	USSR-MOROCCO: Warming Relations
*
•	The US Embassy in Rabat says a visiting Soviet trade delegation is receiving unusually prominent press coverage and attention from high-level Moroccan officials. The two sides reportedly signed · ;	protocols to revive both a previous trade agreement and a joint
1	venture to develop Moroccan phosphate. Meanwhile, discussions are ٠ .	continuing on a broader oil supply arrangement and an agreement to i f	increase trade. The USSR accounts for 4 percent of Rabat's foreign	25X1
: `	trade but supplies 20 percent of its oil.	23/(1
!	the property of the property o
	Comment: Soviet trade delegations have made annual visits to 1 n	Morocco for many years. King Hassan probably arranged the i	increased press attention this year to demonstrate his eagerness to
: :	address deteriorating social and economic conditions. He also wants	25X1
; ;	to improve trade with Moscow, particularly the sale of phosphates—	20711
f +	Morocco's primary export—because of the growing trade deficit with Moscow and the weak international market for phosphates.
. "	, and the proopriation
	:
	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	25X1
1 y		20/(1
	i ,
' 1	JORDAN: King's Gesture Toward Arabs
1 1
1 9	King Hussein used his address at the opening of the Jordanian
• :	parliament on Monday as a response to Arab criticism of his decision
1) 1)	to restore diplomatic relations with Egypt. He emphasized that Arab il Il	disarray was a major factor in Israel's ability to act with impunity and
9	that a strong Arab front was needed to counter Tel Aviv. He cast
1	doubt on Israeli willingness to negotiate, insisted that an exchange of
* .	land for peace be the basis of any talks, and repeated his charge that the US partiality toward Israel undercuts Washington's credibility as a
1	mediator.	051/4
1 9		25X1
. "	Comment: Hussein probably expects little help from Israel or the US in restoring momentum to the peace process. He may, however, hope · ( $	to develop a united Arab front that could take the lead in peace diplomacy. Hussein also is worried Jordan's military weakness and what he sees as a lack of US support leave him vulnerable to Syrian intimidation.
		25X1
		/JA [
B		20711
		20/(1
: . !		20/(1
: . !		20/(1
!		20/(1
!		29,(1
! ! !		29, (

	ļ
Sanitized	Copy App	roved for Release	2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
			Top Secret
				25X1
			and the second of the second o
			JAPAN: Pressures To Raise Defense Spending
			Pressures from within the ruling Liberal Democratic Party, the . '		Japanese Defense Agency, and Japanese industry, combined with
	•		encouragement from the US, are pushing the Liberal Democratic
•	•		leaders to raise defense spending by redefining the present limit.
			Press reports, apparently leaked by senior party officials, indicate the
, £	,		ceiling may be changed from "below 1 percent" to "about 1 percent"
1	•		of GNP, possibly as early as late October.	25X1
			Japanese companies want the change in order to increase sales to	25/(1
•			the Defense Agency.
		•
		we file	Comment: Tokyo—facing political, business, and bureaucratic	25X1
•			pressure—probably will revise the defense spending limit by early next spring. The Defense Agency needs more funding to meet procurement objectives. The Liberal Democrats already are trying to minimize the political repercussions of a revision by intimating that 1	the limit will not exceed 1.5 percent of GNP.
	-
				25X1
				23/1
				25X1
	- 1			23/1
			YUGOSLAVIA: Measures Against Ethnic Albanians
	•	•	TOGOCEATIA: Measures Against Etimo Albamans
			A proposed toughening of laws on ethnic intolerance will increase resistance among Albanian nationalists in Kosovo Province. Several changes would make national, religious, or racial intolerance a federal	25X1
		•
			crime and would void property sales concluded under the threat of	25/1 ethnic violence. Other new laws would overturn Kosovo's bilingual employment policy and limit the public use of the Albanian flag.
			Comment: The new measures, now being considered by the legislature, are aimed at pacifying the Serbian and Montenegrin
	•		minorities in Kosovo, who increasingly are motivated to emigrate because of violence and discrimination. The draft measures reaffirm •			Belgrade's harsh stand against Albanian nationalists and will make
-			tensions in Kosovo Province worse. Limits on the use of the Albanian
,			flag, if pressed, could cause a new round of local defiance and new
•			strains with neighboring Albania.	25X1
•				_3,(1
			•

3 October 1984

Sanitized (	Copy Approved for Release	2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4  Top Secret	25X1
130		USSR-ANGOLA: Possible Soviet Disinformation
	·	Recent stories appearing in the West European press allege that Angolan Politburo member Kito Rodrigues and another senior Angolan official associated with negotiations with the West on Namibia are involved in a petroleum scandal. One story also claims CIA involvement. The Angolan Government has denounced the stories as false and says they were "launched by imperialism" and aimed at government figures negotiating with the West.	25X1
•	•	Comment: The Angolan treatment of the story suggests that Luanda's criticism is directed at the Soviets. There is no information to confirm Soviet involvement, but the story may have been planted to discredit Rodrigues, whom the Soviets and Cubans regard as one of the architects of Angola's policy of compromise over Namibia.	25X1
		·	25X1
		·
			25X1
	• .
•
•	÷	•

: 1
Sanitized Copy Approved for Release	e 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
Carmine a Copy , approved for residue	Top Secret
	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • •
	!
		25X1
·	•
	WESTERN EUROPE: Delays in Satellite Launches
•	Arianespace, the commercial operator of the Ariane space launch vehicle, has released a revised launch schedule listing only one more launch this year and a maximum of six next year. Two geosynchronous communications satellites are to be launched by an '	Ariane-3 on 9 November. The new Ariane schedule shows that one
ē.	launch has been delayed from 1984 to 1985 and three launches from	•
•
	1985 to 1986.	25X1
		20/\ I
•	Comment: Refurbishment of the launch pad between missions is taking longer than expected and is the primary reason for these
•	slippages. The entire program probably will be delayed by at least six
1	months unless Arianespace develops new launch procedures to reduce launch pad damage. If launch pad refurbishment continues to take three months or more rather than the planned two months.
•	however, Arianespace could be at least a year behind schedule by the end of the decade. These delays would benefit the US commercial
•	space-launch industry if US launch vehicles such as the Delta and
1	Atlas-Centaur remain on schedule. Customers for satellite launches, facing revenue losses from the delays, would switch from Ariane to US launches.
	• ,	OEV4
	· · ·	25X1
	· :	25X1
•	• :	25X1
	USSP: Most Production Up	25X1
	USSR: Meat Production Up	25X1
		25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year	25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due	25X1 25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs,
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome.
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—	25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—	25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—	25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—	25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—	25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—	25X1
	Published production figures for the first eight months of this year indicate that Soviet meat production increased 7.6 percent over the comparable period in 1983. The growth in meat output this year is due largely to a record harvest of forage crops last fall, a second consecutive mild winter which reduced the demand for feedstuffs, record livestock inventories, and near-peak grain imports.  Comment: Meat production is almost certain to reach or slightly exceed government goals for the second consecutive year. Nearly three months remain in the year, and feedstuff availability and Soviet livestock management policies can still affect the final outcome. The Soviets could achieve a slight increase in consumer meat consumption if meat imports remain high, but they may choose instead to rebuild low meat inventories. The impact on meat production of this year's poor grain crop—now estimated at 180 million tons, 15 million tons below last year's estimated output—	25X1

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/02/10: CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4

3 October 1984

Sanitized C	: Copy Approved for Release	2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
		In Brief	25X1 25X1
* · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	Middle East	<ul> <li>Soviet television yesterday reported meeting between Chernenko and visiting South Yemeni President suggests talks went smoothly as expected, Moscow criticized US policy in Middle East, called for international peace conference and Indian Ocean zone of peace.</li> </ul>	25X1
•
•			25X1

Sanitized	Copy Approved for Rele	ease 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
	! .		25X1
	•	; .
		·
•	;	Special Applysis
1		Special Analysis
4	NICARAGUA:	Mixed Prospects for the Insurgents
		Anti-Sandinista guerrilla groups are becoming more unified both politically and militarily, but growing logistic problems cloud their future. Guerrillas based in the north have kept the regime on the defensive, but groups in the south currently are incapable of mounting a serious challenge. Meanwhile, the insurgents' increasing ties to the political opposition have improved the guerrillas' political legitimacy.	25X1
4		The Nicaraguan Democratic Force and the Democratic Revolutionary Alliance brought the Miskito Indians of the Misura into their partnership in late August to form the Nicaraguan Democratic Unity. Several leaders traveled together to Europe last week, and the Democratic Force reportedly is sending food and military supplies to its smaller allies.	25X1
#		All of the insurgent groups supported the civil opposition's demands for a free election in an appeal to the meeting in San Jose last week of EC and Central American foreign ministers. Edan Pastora, who split from the Revolutionary Alliance in June in opposition to the insurgents' unity accord, also signed the document.	25X1
ļ	• 1	Democratic Force Bearing the Burden	 25X1
		The Democratic Force, which claims to have over 10,000 men, has engaged in heavy fighting in the northwest and appears to be inflicting many more casualties than it is losing. After a lull of several months, the insurgents renewed air attacks with a raid on Santa Clara on 1 September.	25X1
1		small numbers of militia members and draftees continue to desert to the insurgents.	 25X´
		The guerrillas reportedly are suffering severe shortages of ammunition for support weapons, which are causing them to avoid head-on clashes.	25X1
i			25X1
	1	continued
	3 1 1 i	Top Secret	25X1

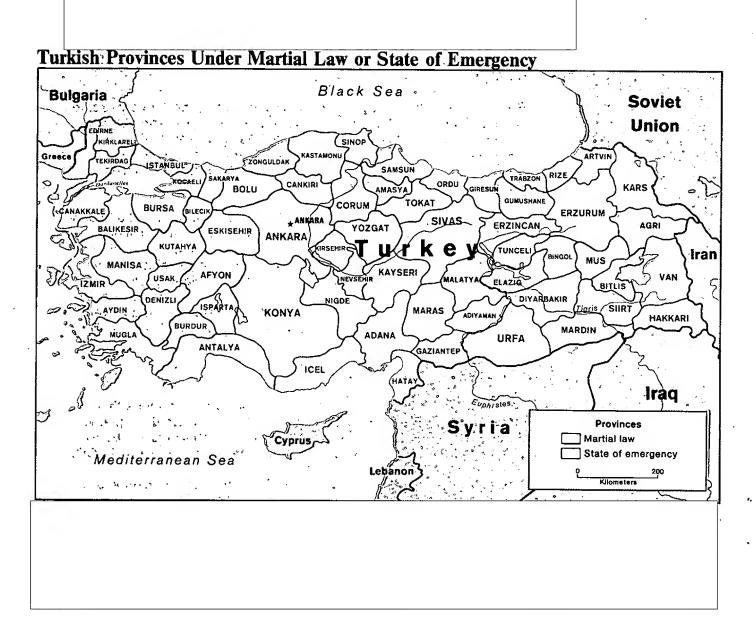

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4

-3 October 1984

25X1

-Top Secret

ILLEGIB

ILLEGIB

∴Top⊹Secret

	!	Release 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
			25
1
:	;
,		Special Analysis
,	TURKEY:	Resurgent Terrorism
	AV	A new outbreak of terrorist activity throughout Turkey is the latest evidence that the military and civilian governments in power since the coup of 1980 have not eradicated extremist violence. Despite nearly six years of martial law, the longest and toughest state of siege in the Republic's history, many of the militant groups responsible for the chaos of the late 1970s remain intact. Security forces probably can avert a major threat to public order, but violence is likely to be a continuing feature of Turkish life until the social and economic factors contributing to terrorism are eased.  The transition to civilian rule, following the election last November of the government headed by Prime Minister Turgut Ozal, has taken place under fairly calm conditions. Recent attacks by Turkish leftists and Kurdish separatists, however, mark the strongest challenge to public order since 1980. They indicate that terrorist groups still pose a serious threat.  Kurds in southeastern Turkey launched simultaneous raids on several government outposts in mid-August. The attacks were	2 25
1	_	unprecedented in timing and scope.
	4365		2
		In mid-September, a Marxist group called Dev-Sol claimed
1		responsibility for several bombing incidents in Istanbul.
1	TS L		OE.
		Ankara's Ability To Cope	25)
	· one	Ozal agrees with President Evren and senior military officers on the need for stronger measures to counter terrorism. Ozal and Evren apparently intend to move slowly in reducing martial law, which still exists in 41 of Turkey's 67 provinces. The government has at its disposal several laws passed by the former military government, including "state of emergency" powers for provincial governors, to use in an intermediate stage between military and civilian rule.	25
		The resilience of Turkey's 25 or so active militant groups derives in part from their fragmentation. Terrorist groups are prone to factionalism and shifting leadership. They are often small and dedicated to violent action rather than development of a broad base of support.	25)
1	,	continued	23/
	!
•			•
1		Top Secret	25>

Sanitized Copy Approved for R	telease 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4
1	Top Secret
		25X1
. £		25/1
	1 · v
	+
1	These characteristics multiply the problems of the security forces.
•	Senior police officials reportedly are pessimistic about their ability to }	eradicate clandestine groups, despite having more funds for	25X1 equipment and training.
i	Turkov's extremists ennear to have little difficulty requising followers
	Turkey's extremists appear to have little difficulty recruiting followers because of the country's acute social and economic problems. These ,	include endemic unemployment, one of the highest rates of population growth and urban migration in the world, land distribution
11	and income inequities, an outdated educational system, and festering
1	ethnic and sectarian tensions.
The state of the s	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·	25X1
- h	In addition, a majority of the country's convicted terrorists will be
1 3	released within the next few years. Most probably remain strongly committed to radical causes.	25X1
· )		20/(1
it ii	Even though terrorism is mainly indigenous, the government also i it	must deal with some foreign subversion. Officials reportedly are il 1	increasingly concerned about foreign support for Turkish and Kurdish
9	militants, particularly by Syria. Another phenomenon, too, is the use ) 	of Turkish soil by Middle Eastern neighbors to attack each other and
1	Western enemies.	051/4
4		25X1
	Outle at
i,	Outlook
	A gradual increase of terrorism is likely during the next year or as but i T	A gradual increase of terrorism is likely during the next year or so, but short of levels that would threaten political stability. The authorities
)) 	may adopt more stringent policies that risk slowing Turkey's
- i) - i)	democratic development. Tougher police or military action alone will
1	not solve the problem because the social and economic conditions that caused violence in the first place still exist. Ozal's economic
* 	reforms—if they take hold—will help ameliorate these conditions, but he will need to go further in order to solve the problem of extremism over the long term.	25X1
i L		25/(1
	Extremists almost certainly view the US as the key supporter of the coup of 1980 and of the military regime. Even a modest revival of terrorism will lead to new threats to US servicemen and facilities in
į.	Turkey. According to the US Embassy, the Turkish police claim to	7 have information that militants may be planning attacks.
	,	]
:	. ;
		25X1
i i		20/(1
:		25X′
i i
•

	Top Secret

•	1
ì	Special Analysis
ZIMBABWE:	Mugabe Consolidating Control
1 1 1 1	Prime Minister Mugabe's strong criticism of US policy on southern Africa and charges of US collusion with Pretoria reflect increased self-confidence but do not presage basic policy changes.
	Mugabe consolidated his control over the party at the second congress of the Zimbabwe African National Union in August. He appointed all of the members of a new Politburo that essentially runs the party and the government. Half the members are from Mugabe's subtribe of the country's Shona-speaking majority, which has long dominated the party.
	The biggest loser was the largest Shona-speaking subtribe, which had held a third of the positions in the old Central Committee.
1	Prospects
1	If Mugabe emerges as the consensus candidate for the OAU chairmanship in November, which now appears increasingly likely, he may become a bolder and more independent critic of the US.
;	He will remain committed to socialist goals. He most likely will continue, however, to let the realities of the Zimbabwean economy constrain radical ideologues.
	The Prime Minister is likely to press for a one-party state and an executive presidency, probably after elections early next year. He is unlikely to get the necessary unanimous approval of Parliament, however, because 20 seats are reserved for whites until at least 1987.
	Mugabe's commitment to a one-party state and to a "socialist transformation" could cause instability in Zimbabwe by aggravating relations with the country's Ndebele and white minorities and with South Africa. Nevertheless, some whites profess a new confidence because they believe that a cohesive party can deal with unrest and that realists remain in control.
1
·
: ! !
1	Į.
:

3 October 1984 Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 2011/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00970R000500020011-4

15

Sanitized Copy Approved for Release 20	11/02/10 : CIA-RDP87T00	0970R000500020011-	4
				25X1
			·, ·
-
	•
				₹ ¥
				i,
· ·
		·
0	,			